Product Description

ADSS De Fibra Optic Cable 2 4 6 8 Cores De Antena Cable PE Jacket 2/3 Kilometers

Products Description

The All-Dielectric Self-Supporting (ADSS) fiber-optic cable system eliminates the necessity for a separate messenger wire or support infrastructure during installation. It incorporates a central conduit to hold the optical fibers, which are then wrapped in aramid fiber layers followed by an outer protective jacket. The complete dielectric composition of ADSS cables renders them fit for installation in regions with substantial electrical interference, such as near power lines. They are frequently deployed in long-distance, high-voltage environments, including over power lines, railways, highways, and rivers. The self-supporting attribute of ADSS cables facilitates a more straightforward and cost-efficient installation process than traditional fiber-optic cables, as it negates the requirement for additional support structures. Additionally, the use of ADSS cables can lessen the visual impact of overhead fiber-optic installations. To conclude, ADSS cables represent a multifaceted, efficient, and robust solution for fiber-optic communications in challenging outdoor environments, featuring a unique design and construction that make them appropriate for a variety of applications, ensuring reliable and high-performance connectivity even in the most demanding circumstances.

Characteristics:

1. The cable's integrity is bolstered by strength members composed solely of non-metallic dielectric materials.
2. A proprietary gel within the tube ensures critical safeguarding of the optical fibers.
3. The core strength members, constructed from FRP and incorporating Dupont's aramid yarn, add to the cable's robust framework.
4. The cable achieves outstanding attenuation, showcasing its superior AT performance.
5. It demonstrates consistent performance over a wide temperature range and possesses anti-aging features, mitigating the environmental effects of ice and wind on towers.
